Barbara;

It's hard for me to sign these, because I always run out of words and "Good Luck" is kind of abused, isn't it? But I hope everything you do and that happens to you makes you happy. Shine on brightly.

Laura Coppedge

Barbara -
Well even though I didn't know you as well as I did in the past years we still had a good time. Maybe we will see each other better.

Barbara,
It really hard to believe that school's all over. It's been a good year. If you're ever down or confused just remember that God loves you and "Christ is our living peace." Read Ephesians. It's great. Hang in there and take care. In Christ,
Sally Limer

This is an attempt at honesty. You will not find beautiful, posed pictures with bright lighting and set backgrounds. You will not read reams of insignificant copy. Neither will you see traditionally-defined sections which break the unity of the school life we would like to portray.

Rather, you will discover candid pictures photographed with available light an effort to capture true mood and expression. Furthermore, you will read copy that attempts to crystalize meaning. You will also see a chronological pattern throughout the book.

The staff of CAMPUS 69 hopes you will interpret this book as an experiment in expression and as an experience in reliving our year.

What did you find in the shadow factory yesterday?

We were groping
through the gray with questions.

Remember?

And we discovered
each other
while we were piecing together our identities . . .

Then as now and always . . .

nature expresses we respond . . .

It all began when, raking the autumn leaves that crunched under our feet, we turned our backs on summer, shoelessness, and freedom and took the first reluctant steps back to admit slips, homework, and 2:15.

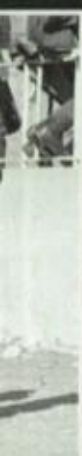

September 16, 1968

A thousand hours began ticking away when we reached the end of a long line and received our program cards. Then, hungering for familiar faces, we found our ways to rooms brimming with books and desks and the voices of people who would fill the onrushing todays and tomorrows of our lives.

"I got my hair. I got my freedom, Brother."

Even before school started, we heard about the new dress code with varying degrees of disbelief. Word was received early enough that the majority of moustaches and sideburns did not fall victim to the razor needlessly, and hems were not let down to fit the former three-inches-above-the-knee standard. Shorts, sandals without socks, pants for girls at football games, and assorted garb crept into the previously strictly-regulated realm of dress.

The new dress code also encouraged teachers and administrators to express themselves in beards, moustaches, and short skirts.

The Board's decision to de-emphasize the role of personal appearance in education proved to be a boon for all.

Under the skillful direction of Mrs. Carter Settle, the 1969 Chronicle staff combined a variety of talents and techniques to stimulate our interests. We were informed of school and world news through special reports and interviews, weekly columns, editorials, and reviews. Our reactions and opinions were often aired in guest editorials and letters. All told, the exceptional standards, which for many years have secured the "All-American" award for the Chronicle, were maintained if not surpassed in 1969.

Coach Robert Baker

For the first time in eighteen years, the "B" football team of Pasadena High School finished the season undefeated! Under the expert direction of coaches Robert Baker, Ralph Bush, and Richard Roche, the Bullpups developed into one of the finest "B" teams in school history.

The offensive team kept their opponents running, while the defensive team held the opponents' scores down to a bare minimum. Outstanding linemen Mike Bullard, Larry Carnighan, Vic De Silva, Chris LaLone, and Gary Stevens cleared the way for backs Dennis Hall, Alan Hamane, Les Schulz, and Albert Youngblood. Meanwhile, Superdog, Monty, and "B" pep squad inspired the Bullpups on to one glorious victory after another.

Many outstanding varsity players appeared, however, including Chris Cholewiak and goalie Bob Gobrecht. Pat Sullivan, Don Roberts, Frank Barkowski and Ken Carr are expected to highlight next year's action. The "B" team finished high in their league and are also expected to contribute to a stronger varsity next year.

In the season's opening encounters, the PHS CROSS COUNTRY team faced Burbank a little more than a week after school started. Wind sprints, dashes, and distance runs paid off in an impressive season record. Sophomores ran their best in three years, and Emerson Davis broke the sophomore school record.

PHS was downed by powerful rivals from Burbank and Crescenta Valley, but rolled over Muir, Blair, Burroughs, and Glendale. The team missed third in the league meet by a mere point, and finished fourth in the league.

Mr. Borland

Coach Charles Malouf piloted his JV basketball team to a fair season. Despite the 5-9 record the JV's showed some promising talent for future varsity squads. Outstanding on the squad was Dane Woll, voted the Most Valuable Player award. Coach Joe Borland's JB's also showed much promise and improvement this season. Jeff Whitfield, Gary Polk, and Richard Davis were the outstanding players of the team. Many members of this year's JB team have great prospects for next year's Bee and JV teams.

THE AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE sponsors a program which provides an opportunity for outstanding, mature students to live and study abroad. A.F.S. exchange students live with foreign families and learn to communicate in the native tongue. Each year students are given a once-in-a-lifetime chance to learn about others, themselves, and the world around them. AFS CLUB was designed for those interested in learning about foreign lands.

Other highlights of the '68-69 Girls' League year were an all-girl assembly, a fashion show, and the "Slave Day" auction.

A disappointed GIRL'S LEAGUE mulled over the scant Father-Daughter Banquet pre-sale proceeds. Then, to their joy and amazement, on the appointed night, droves of fathers and daughters materialized to sample the chicken feast spread before them by Boys' Leaguers. For entertainment, the Jones Sisters, a red-haired Noah and his imaginary Ark, renditions of Simon and Garfunkel, and a scene from Luv filled the bill.

Duane Merrill

Pasadena's Duane Merrill spent the summer of '68 in Costa Rica where, among other things, he witnessed the eruption of the Arenal Volcano. Living in a town just opposite the volcano, he had an excellent view. The indomitable Duane declares, "Unfortunately, I was not able to venture anywhere near the eruption areas." Costa Rica's educational system also impressed Duane, yet the most rewarding aspect of his stay was learning to know and love people of another environment. Duane recalls, "My whole trip and the good times I had with my 'family' was an unforgettable experience."

Left: Marc and Dorine learned from us and we from them. Everyone involved was a better person for the experience.

Marc revealed an insatiable desire to learn about our political, social, economic, and educational systems. He maintained excellent academic standards and contributed to all aspects of school life during his stay with us.

Below: Dorine brought her gay, free spirit from France, delighting us with her candid approach to life. She readily adapted herself to living in America and became particularly active in our social life.

THE 1968 CHRISTMAS PROGRAM was a non-denominational, creative production presented through the combined efforts of the modern dance department, the Madrigals, the A Cappella Choir, a choral quartet, the orchestra, and various band members under the dynamic direction of Mrs. Marietta Shick. Students created costumes and conceived ideas for the performance. Imaginative planning and hours of disciplined practice provided a festive feat enjoyed by all.

Meanwhile, some strange, insidious force swept out of the Orient into our eyes, ears, noses, throats, etc. It was identified as the Hong Kong flu. School population plunged to a perilous low, the attendance office was overwhelmed, and surviving teachers were rationed among stranded classes. The crisis reached its critical point when only ten out of eleven "lords" leapt during the Christmas program. We met the disaster with optimism, but, alas, we did not get those two extra days of Christmas vacation.

Altadena float—Queen Cindy Wiberg and Princess Toni Rocco

A handful of P.H.S. volunteers with brushes and blossoms in hand were awed by looming steel skeletons and tiers of scaffolding. Clad in "grubbies" that grew grubbier by the minute, they bedecked the massive floats with garlands and sprays and a spectacular profusion of flowers. The hours melted away, enveloped by wave upon wave of laughter and the intermingling odors of petals and glue. Then, on the night of December 31, everyone worked 'til dawn's early light. The floats then disembarked for the glory of the 1969 ROSE PARADE.

Again in 1968 the PHS VARSITY BASKETBALL team proved to be one of the finest teams in the Foothill League. Returning lettermen Bob Mannschreck, Gerald Thornton, Bob Hofman, John Gage, and Kai Kuwata sparked the team to many of its victories.

SLAVE DAY was a happening. It was a girl's golden opportunity to fulfill her whimsey, crush, or curiosity by renting for a day the boy of her choice.

One afternoon we gathered in the "slave market" (formerly known as the lunch quad) and became involved in rally cries, backslapping, dares, and hysteria, as the bidding blossomed into $200 for muscular dystrophy research.

The End of the Beginning . . .
The Beginning of the End . . .

It was one of those rare three-day weekends which scattered us in all directions. Pent up tensions over finals were relieved, and everyone unwound from a week of brain-racking. However, Monday morning reunited the student body, as we tramped back on campus to pick up our programs for the NEW SEMESTER.

YOUNG POLITICIANS — Karl Georgi, Bruce Stuart, Bruce Malter, Duane Merrill.

Promises, promises, promises . . .

Some while ago, the spirit of change roused individuals to become candidates. Soon, our campus blossomed forth with posters and handbills preparing the way for platforms, promises, and debates . . . The next thing we knew, we were following cheerleaders chanting "V-O V-O-V-O-T-E" to portable booths where we borrowed pens and exercised our franchise . . . The plunk of a cast ballot resounded. Candidates held their breaths . . . The joys and disillusionments of the quest lingered on for many a day and night to come.

A new semester introduced A NEW CABINET, eager, idealistic and determined to solve all the problems of the world . . . "Bring the Student Revolution to P.H.S.!" . . . Wait . . . Face reality, strive for the attainable goals existing within the realm of P.H.S.

Working enthusiastically, the Spring ASB Cabinet attempted to respond to the often unspoken needs of the students. It strove to "improve communication and achieve unity." While dealing with the easing of present racial tension here on campus, the Cabinet also looked to the future and discussed the "cluster complex" plan proposed by the Board of Education.

Four and one half months were all it had to establish and implement new policies, but the Spring Cabinet somehow managed to develop its own individual character and succeed in attaining many of its goals.

Mannschreck open for 2 pts. against Glendale.

This year's VARSITY BASKETBALL team, under the guidance of Coach Terzian, rolled to a regular season record of 24-4. As the season progressed, so did the skill and unity of the varsity squad. Gerald Thornton, John Gage, Bob Mannschreck, Charlie Mehl, and Bob Hofman emerged as top-notch athletes, and figured highly in many key decisions.

At the basketball games, undaunted by the frequent lack of music, this year's song girls invented routines to the rhythm of the cheers. Spinning through their routines at football games, they were a welcome relief to hoarse throats. Individual, but hard to envision individually, the song girls contributed "the feminine touch" to PHS spirit.

The Music Man may have come and gone but the music perseveres! From within room 106 C drift concordant expressions of an art in its purest form, the unique beauty of human song pulsating richly. Chantettes, a newly organized group this year, demonstrated the potentialities of refined feminine voices raised in harmony while Acapella Choir engaged in the blending of both the male and female voice resulting in slightly different tonal quality. Madrigals carried us further into the complexities of vocal music, singing not only the traditional madrigals but also other classical and popular selections. Tours to such places as Santa Barbara, Solvang, and San Luis Obispo occurred throughout the course of the year, thus spreading and sharing a bit of PHS joy not directly involved with us. The choral groups further aided in broadening our contacts with the community by putting on a superior production of MUSIC MAN and opening the doors to the public.

The HOMEMAKING CLASSES afforded a new outlook on the basic fundamentals of homemaking. This year they stressed the importance of learning how to manage the home, expenses, and family. They learned ways of coping with responsibilities they may later encounter. Marriage counselors came to talk to the classes and set up family problems that might actually occur, with the individual girls taking the roles of the members of the family. The object of these classes was not only to improve the skills of homemaking but to improve the quality of family life.

IMPRESSIONS BY MARC NARDIN AND DORINE MICHELAT

Marc—"PHS is very different from my school in Switzerland . . . I was a little scared at first . . . but this first impression was quickly eliminated . . . what an advantage to be in a large school! Especially when you have the best drill team, the best football team, the best band . . . never will I forget the football games . . . you have the feeling of the crowd, of an indomitable strength of a huge power . . . and I want to stress this point, in your school you really feel close with the teacher . . . but maybe the best of all is your school spirit, it is what makes your school great!!

Dorine—"PHS is a place of enjoyment . . . students get to learn how to take responsibilities and act like grown-ups . . . school is meant for teaching and learning . . . but meant also for people to get together . . . big emphasis put on the social roll of school . . . lots of fun subjects that we don't have in France . . . it's fantastic to be able to go to school with so few clothes on in March . . . I love your weather . . . I love your people too . . . if you come to France I'll try to be as nice as you were to me . . ."

Cafeteria meeting of PHS students

THE STUDENT BOYCOTT started Friday morning, March 14 as a result of the song girl tryouts. The PHS administration approved of a meeting in the little theater to voice grievances. When no solution was reached there, the black students staged a walkout which developed into a boycott. The same afternoon a negotiating committee from the black students met with Pasadena High School and Ed Center administrators and reached agreement: the song girl tryouts would be done over and the ASB Cabinet would have complete responsibility for the selection and establishment of criteria that would insure fairness in the selection.

However, the problem was not resolved. The boycott continued on Monday. In response to questions posed by a delegation from the ASB Cabinet, the Superintendent said he would recommend new tryouts if significant irregularities in the original selection of song girls could be found.

By Monday afternoon the ASB Cabinet and a select faculty investigation committee found irregularities and recommended new tryouts. At a specially called 8:00 AM Wednesday morning board meeting, the Superintendent did recommend new tryouts and the Board accepted his recommendation, however the boycott continued.

On Thursday afternoon, the Board did assemble at PHS and listened to the boycotting students' grievances. They were not in a position to act however because of a state law which requires 24 hours advance notice for a legal meeting.

Friday morning representatives from the three high schools met with the Superintendent and worked on student requests. Friday night at an open board meeting, the Superintendent presented these requests to the Board and they were unanimously accepted.

The boycott was over. Students by their leadership, their self-discipline and their lack of violence, earned new dignity and respect, and the procedural changes brought a positive recognition of student government.

Spring '69 saw many unprecedented campus occurrences which served to test the true effectiveness of our student leadership. It was hoped that a new trend in student government was evolving. We watched as student leaders struggled to achieve new status and to function as a truly productive working unit. In light of promising accomplishments candidates filed for office at the close of the semester eager to further the development of student power.

Mr. O'Neill

Jim Morgan

Before we leave Pasadena High School we must realize that we have discovered

... a sensation of awe and wonder for man and the natural universe,
... a need for knowledge and for understanding.

we have discovered

... that a man does not exist for himself alone.
... that a man is not a man by the clothes he wears or by the color of his skin.

We have discovered Pasadena High School and we have found a great part of ourselves, a part we shall never forget, even as we go our separate ways.

For many seniors, Grad Nite was the climax of all the happy moments shared throughout three long years of school routine.

Amidst the excitement that was generated by the crowds, noises, and magical surroundings of Disneyland, couples strolled under trees sparkling with fireflies. Branching off to the right, Tomorrowland, with its futuristic design, beckoned each visitor who passed by. Distant drums echoed with enchantment in Adventureland where torches flickered and cool, green waters were bathed in moonlight. Frontierland resounded with gunfire and Indian war chants. The most magical moments of all were shared in Fantasyland where bobsleds zoomed through the dark caverns of Matterhorn Mountain and screams of excitement filled the air.

Finally, the weary throng was drawn by the melancholy notes of a calliope to King Arthur's Carousel. Then, in the early dawn, a new feeling of freedom filled the heavy hearts. The portals of the past were opened wide on a new day and a new life for the graduating P.H.S. Seniors.

Editor's Acknowledgements

The staff this year was really great! There were so many individuals with their own creativity, thoughts and ideas, and yet somehow everything blended together and the result was even better for it. There was a real closeness among the staff and a total involvement. Openmindedness and self-expression were important because the book was published and put out by the students. We had our share of lost negatives and headaches but nevertheless it was an uncomparable experience in which ideas and friendships developed along with a knowledge and appreciation of the art of photography, layout, copy, and organization. But even more important than the knowledge we gained of journalism, were the insights we learned about ourselves and other people by working with them. This has been more valuable than anything could possibly have been because we'll always be able to use the things we learned later on.

To be able to begin the book, specific jobs were handled by certain people, but as the book progressed everyone began to help everyone else and unknown talents were discovered. It would be impossible to draw a line between the different editorships because EVERYONE pitched in. It was really a team effort and all the staff deserves recognition and praise. I, as editor, would especially like to acknowledge several members who really merit special recognition.

One of these is Carlin Verreaux. With her perception of art, and her creativity, she made an outstanding contribution to the book. She showed her dedication especially in the tiring job of making layouts and once layout style had already been established she still did them with originality and patience. I really couldn't thank her enough for the great job she did!

I would also like to personally thank Jeni Yamada for her unfailing enthusiasm and friendship. Along with her organization and great sense of responsibility, Jeni always had a smile and a constant eagerness which everyone on the staff, especially myself, appreciated.

Toby Raphael is one of those amazing people who manages to look completely disorganized and carefree until deadline, when he shows up with everything done beautifully, pictures "cropped" and all. Toby's leadership and suggestions were invaluable.

A new addition to the staff was photographer Bill Bolster. His skills were in constant demand and in moments of crisis he would be up till 3:30 printing. I really don't know what we would have done without his willingness and good nature.

Martin Becker was another addition who contributed a large part of his time and energy toward the yearbook. His persistence and his skill in photography added greatly to the production of the book.

A special thanks goes to Debbie Lee for her unselfish help whenever a problem came up. Her dedication to her own work and her assistance with other's problems really helped a lot.

Nancy Stevens radiated a cheerful willingness throughout the year and midway through she took over the duties of another who for health reasons could no longer spend the time necessary for writing copy. No matter how pressing the demands were, Nancy always seemed tireless and cheerful. Even at the last moment she turned out excellent copy which showed she had the ability to say what we wanted.

One of the most difficult jobs on the staff is Index. Patty McMinn kept up with it the whole year and at the last deadlines her dedication was really wonderful.

I would especially like to thank Mr. Girdner for everything he's done for us. By allowing us to make our own decisions which sometimes weren't so great, he has given us more than if he had told us what to do or what would be best. Mr. G. put up with a lot and his sense of humor and encouragement really pulled us through some tight spots. He has a rare insight which enables him to bring out the best in people and understand them. I personally wouldn't be able to thank him enough for his help and friendship. His confidence and unfailing enthusiasm in everything and everyone have really done a lot for the whole staff, especially me. The casual atmosphere he encouraged is what really distinguished this class from any other. But although 103 G seemed all confusion and noise most of the time things did get done.

I couldn't express all that I have learned from yearbook or even what it has done for me. All I know is that it's done more for me than anything else could and I'll always be able to use what I've learned.

Barb - It has been fun having you in my class this year. I hope you've enjoyed it too. Please have a fine year at school and best of luck in the future.

— Troop Petrone

Mr. Petrone

Mr. Arthur G. Dittberner has made the greatest conceivable contribution to our education and growth by allowing us to make our own decisions and giving us freedom of expression. This publication would not have been possible without his complete confidence.

Mrs. Margaret Ungerman was the lady behind the scenes handling all our financial matters promptly and efficiently.

Mr. Frank Flanagan of Juanita Studios deserves a huge note of thanks for his consistent quality in the senior pictures and also for his willingness to help us out at any time.

The PHS faculty has been really understanding this year. Although they were inconvenienced by our phone calls during lunch and our timely absences during a deadline, they have been, without exception, very helpful. Although every faculty member has been immensely understanding, there are several who stood out for their exceptional assistance. I would personally like to thank Mr. Petrone for everything he's done for the yearbook staff and especially me. He has quite a few staff members in his classes and he was always more than understanding about us getting out of class all the time. He never restricted any of us in yearbook but was more of a stimulator. I think he realized how much we were learning from it and I can't possibly thank him enough for all that he has done for me, and what he has enabled me to do! His good nature and great humor have really been an inspiration.

There were several other faculty members who were so exceptionally understanding that they really deserve to be mentioned and whom everyone on the CAMPUS staff would like to thank; they are Mrs. Leveille, Mrs. Schick, Mr. Wirth, Mrs. Kaler, Mrs. Lauderdale and Mr. Guyer.

Mrs. Broomfield in the Attendance Office also deserves some recognition for her patience and assistance in letting us use her program card files all the time.

We would also like to extend our thanks to the cafeteria ladies who so often lent us their ladder for the group pictures.
